tators Were Injured.

Westbrook, Me., Nov. 20.—The few injured in the fire that destroyed Spier's opera house last night were reported today as practically recovered from their cuts and bruises with the exception of George W. Collins of New York, who is still suffering from burns about the face and hands. Collins was operating the moving picture machine, from which the blaze started.

The bits of burning films, dropping from the gallery to the floor in front of the main entrance shut off escape in that direction. The stage hands shouting a warning opened the rear passage-way on the easterly side of the stage and stood on guard there keeping the crowd moving out in sufficient order to prevent any one falling and being trampled upon.

The audience, numbering about 200, went out in quicker time than ever before and not a person was dangerously hurt.

STEAMER RAN AGROUND,

IMMIGRANTS CHEERED

Didn't Know the Predicament The Vessel Had Run Into—All Efforts to Float Boat Have Failed.

New York, Nov. 21.—Despite the efforts of a half dozen tugs, the Prince line steamer "Sicilian Prince" which went aground at Long Beach, Long Island yesterday morning, has not yet been pulled into deep water. The tugs will make another effort at high tide tonight.

The passengers, five hundred thirty-seven in number, all of whom are immigrants from Italy, were taken off in tugs and lighters during the night and landed at Ellis Island. It is thought that the boat will have to be lightened before it can float.

The Sicilian Prince went ashore shortly before the tide had reached its height, about five o'clock Sunday morning, so that only a high water was the cause able to move her. An unusually fast trip has been made and when she struck this morning she was making 12 knots.

Capt. Richard Van Wycklen, in charge of the Long Beach life saving station, says that it was hazy at the time and the captain of the Sicilian Prince was steering a northeasterly course. His only explanation of the vessel being in so close to shore is that he learned from some of the crew of the ship who say that Capt. William Hank of the Prince liner saw the Sandy Hook light and mistook it for the Barnegat light, on the Jersey coast. Patrolman Milo H. Abrams of the life saving corps, saw the vessel heading for the beach and burned a flare but the signal was apparently too late.

The lookout on the ship heard the breakers ahead and gave the warning, the engines were reversed, but the vessel slid up on the beach before she could overcome her momentum. The steamer grounded so easily that few of the passengers knew of the ship's predicament until daylight. Even then, as the emigrants looked out upon America for the first time they broke into a cheer, thinking they had arrived at the end of their journey.

Their Lives Yesterday

IN TENEMENT HOUSE FIRE

Inmates Were Asleep When Fire Broke
Out in the Basement of Three-
Story Building—Property Loss
Only $10,000.

New York, Nov. 20.—Smothered before they could make their escape from a burning tenement at 186 Troutman street in the Williamsburg district of Brooklyn, twelve persons met death shortly before 2 o'clock this morning. Two entire families, those of Mariano Triolo and Charles Polignio, were wiped out, the last living member of each now in a hospital with no hope of their recovery. They are Charles Polignio, 31 years old and Tony Triolo, 13 years old, both of whom were terribly burned. Although, in the opinion of the coroner, all the dead were suffocated, the bodies were badly burned before they could be taken from the ruins by the firemen.

The burned tenement house is in the center of a row of three-story tenements extending the length of the block, and occupied by Italians. The fire is supposed to have started in the cellar of the grocery store of Antonio Giambalvo, on the ground floor. The cellar was stored with inflammable material and the flames spread with lightning-like rapidity. All the occupants were asleep and there was considerable delay in sending in the first alarm. The Giambalvo family lived in the rear of the store, and succeeded in getting out of the building, but before the occupants on the other two floors were aroused their escape had been cut off.

The work of the firemen was greatly hampered for a time by the crowds of frightened Italians who filled the streets. The tenants in nearly all the neighboring buildings dragged their household goods out of the buildings, and with them blocked the way of the fire apparatus.

All the bodies were found in the rear room of the third floor, and it was evident that all had been suffocated in their efforts to reach the rear fire escape. The two who were rescued were found in the lower hallway soon after the firemen reached the scene. Working their way through the blazing line, the rescuers discovered the heap of dead on the third floor, and within a short time succeeded in taking out nine bodies, but the last was not found until after eight o'clock this morning. In his intervals of consciousness, Polignio cries for his wife and children, but the physicians fear the knowledge of their death would kill him and they have not told him of their fate.

The street about the burned building has been crowded with Italians all day, but the police report that everyone they have questioned regarding the persons burned or the occupants of the building has declined to make any answer. It was with great difficulty that even the names of the victims could be obtained. The dead are: The mother and two small children of the Polignio family; Mariano Triolo, his wife and three children; Marie Ambrosio and her 15-year-old daughter; Mary Galigoni and Lonoria Grossi. The total loss is estimated at $10,000.

Fire at Windsor Last Evening Does Considerable Damage.

Windsor, Nov. 21.—Fire broke out on the first floor of Carleton hall on State street at 5:30 last evening and in less than one hour the building was practically destroyed. It was occupied by several families who lost nearly all their goods with little or no insurance upon them. The building was owned by Mrs. Della L. Davis and was valued at $4,000, with insurance of $3,000. There were several narrow escapes by the firemen who went in after the state roof began to fall in, and one tenant, Fred Quimby, broke one arm while moving some goods from the building.

Proposed That Union Men of Barre and Vicinity Donate One-Half of Their Earnings Next Saturday,
November 26.

Barre is always generous and the appeal of the striking textile workers of Fall River, Mass., for aid, will receive substantial aid from all working men here.

At a special joint meeting of the Central Labor Union and affiliated locals held in the Nichols' block yesterday afternoon, the following resolution was moved by Alex. Robertson, secretary of the Granite Cutters, and unanimously adopted:

"That all unions affiliated with the Central Labor Union of Barre and Vicinity be requested to set aside one afternoon's pay for the benefit of the Textile Workers of Fall River, Mass., and that Saturday, Nov. 26, be set as the day most appropriate, and that the day be known through union circles in Barre as Fall River Day."
